DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-7 are presented for examination.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 5-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Addington et al. (Patent Number: 6,405,239 B1 filed December 9, 1997, hereinafter Addington) and Pike et al. (Patent Number: 5,623,666 filed May 18, 1995 hereinafter, Pike).

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art only under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) might be overcome by: (1) a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not an invention "by another"; (2) a showing of a date of invention for the claimed subject matter of the application which corresponds to subject matter disclosed but not claimed in the reference, prior to the effective U.S. filing date of the reference under 37 CFR 1.131; or (3) an oath or declaration under 37 CFR 1.130 stating that the application and reference are currently owned by the same party and that the inventor named in the application is the prior inventor under 35 U.S.C. 104, together with a terminal disclaimer in accordance with 37 CFR 1.321(c). This rejection might also be overcome by showing that the reference is disqualified under 35 U.S.C. 103(c) as prior art in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a). See MPEP § 706.02(I)(1) and § 706.02(I)(2). The relevancy of Patent Number: 6,405,239 B1 is relevant because it claims a broadcast file system.

5. Regarding Claim 1, Addington teaches using a hierarchical file system for indexing data broadcast to a client from a network of servers.

The method and associated system for using a hierarchical file system for indexing data broadcast to a client from a network of servers as taught or suggested by Addington includes:

a content file into a plurality of files according to a service (col. 3, lines 58-67); providing the segmented (configuration/image) files to the BFS (col. 3, lines 43-57) and all files included in the application are transmitted to the set-top (col. 13, line 55).

However, Addington does not expressly teach loading a configuration file, requesting a service by a user, loading one service file among a plurality of service files that are associated with the requested service; storing the requested service file in memory; and displaying the requested service file.

Pike teaches loading a configuration file (figure 1, element 109 file system), requesting a service by a user, loading one service file among a plurality of service files that are associated with the requested service (col. 16, lines 40-55); storing the requested service file in memory (figure 1); and displaying the requested service file (figure 1).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the method of Addington with the method of Pike because Pike's method could enable the bfs method of Addington to include two types of services, wherein the first service provides a call function in an effort to implement the service and the second service provides a file operation requests that implements services based on a particular protocol.

6. Regarding Claims 2-4, the limitations of these claims have been noted in the rejection presented above. They are therefore rejected as set forth above.
